Statement of Support

Since the tragic events of September 11, 2001, the protection of the United States' borders from terrorist activity has become a top national priority. In response, the United States Customs and Border Protection Agency (US CBP) has partnered with the trade community to form Customs Trade Partnership Against Terrorism (C-TPAT). C-TPAT is designed to enhance security controls and reduce the threat of terrorism.

Far East American, Inc. (FEA) is committed to support CBP as a validated member of C-TPAT. FEA is focused on protecting the United States from criminal activities such as drug trafficking, terrorism, pests, human smuggling, and illegal contraband.

FEA is a proud partner and will continue to work with CBP to enhance the security of the supply chain for importation to the United States by focusing on the physical security, procedural security, physical access controls, corporate security, cybersecurity, transportation security, and continuing education of personnel and facilities involved in the supply chain.
